CAERDA International Conference Agenda

Improving education quality is a major goal of many nations. With the globalization of the world economy, many countries also are facing the globalization of educational systems, or the transfer and exchange of people, ideas, curriculums, and technologies.

The 2005 CAERDA Conference brings together over 15 leading Chinese and Chinese American education experts from Columbia University, East China Normal University, National Taiwan Normal University, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, the University of Maryland and other leading institute to discuss and disseminate the current state of knowledge on educational reforms in China, Taiwan, and the United States.

This one-day conference will consist of three panel presentations and a poster presentation on topics involving the globalization of education in Taiwan and China, comparing to those found in the U.S. The particular topics covered include: Education Reform and Development, Privatization and Choice in Education, and Use of Technology in Learning, Teaching, and Assessment (visit at www.caerda.org for the tentative conference program). Selected papers from the conference will be published as an edited book or as a series of articles in the international journal, New Waves Journal.

See you in
See you in Montreal!

Montreal, Fr. Montréal [môNraäl'], S Que., Canada, on Montreal island, surrounded by St. Lawrence River and Rivière des Prairies. Montreal is the second largest metropolitan area in Canada, after Toronto, and is a cultural, commercial, financial, and industrial center. It's a bilingual city where you'll hear French and English spoken everywhere, along with some 35 other languages and many well-established cultural communities, from Italian to Chinese, Greek and Spanish-speaking.

Montreal has so much to offer: vast green spaces, charming neighborhoods that recall its European origins, and its metro (subway) system, nearly 30 km of underground lines linking the main office towers with the many shopping centers downtown. The exceptional quality of life comes with a surprisingly low price tag—one of the lowest costs of living in all of North America, largely because of the affordable housing.

You can count on a warm welcome. Montreal invites you to leap into a whirl of cultural and sports activities, summer and winter. There's no end to the bistros, pubs, restaurants, hip clubs and exciting discotheques, with something for every taste and every budget.
